The Pianola (A Piano Player) $250 up
The Pianola Piano (A Player Piano) $550 up

Are the only piano players and player-pianos made that can contain the most vital of all features—the Metro-style and the Thermoist.

The Metrostyle enables any one to interpret the music played with true musical feeling—to follow, if desired, the authoritative interpretation of the composer, or some well-known exponent of his works. No other piano-player in the world has the Metrostyle, or anything that takes its place. Yet many great musicians, such as Hoffmann, Rosenthal, Moszkowski, Leschetizky (teacher of Paderewski), etc., have stated that the Metrostyle is absolutely essential to a piano-player.

The Thermoist is another exclusive feature of the PIANOLA and PIANOLA Piano. In every composition there are certain notes that should sound above the rest. The Thermoist accents these notes wherever they may lie—that is, the accompaniment, whether it be in the deepest bass or surrounding the melody in a network of runs and trills, is always subordinate to the main theme or "air."

These features, together with others, like the Graduated Accompaniment, the Sustaining Pedal Device, etc., are what give the finish to a performance with the PIANOLA Piano that has made this instrument famous. They are the basis for the fascination that every one feels in playing the PIANOLA Piano. And they distinguish the PIANOLA Piano from the host of imitations which its success has brought upon the market.

Let us send you a beautiful catalog telling you about the Pianola Piano.

MRS. WALDORF ASTOR SAYS SHE'S STILL GOOD AMERICAN

MRS. WALDORF ASTOR.

Proud of Peary's Feat, but 'Shackleton Traveled Over More Actual Ice,' She Declares With Authority.

New York, March 26.—Among the passengers on the Lusitania yesterday, of whom Sir Ernest and Lady Shackleton were most conspicuous, there was a smiling, good looking little woman, dressed quietly in brown, who stood listening intently to the southern explorer talking to the interviewers on the way up from Quarantine.

Some one recognized her as Mrs. Waldorf Astor (the former Miss Nanine Langhorne, of Virginia), and a detachment of reporters surrounded her. "Don't bother about me, I am a very inconspicuous person," she laughed. "Talk to Sir Ernest. He's a real hero and his wife's a dear. Why, he did more actual traveling over the ice than Peary did in discovering the North Pole."

Mrs. Astor quoted latitudes and other "data" with the air of an expert on frigid exploration, and apparently proved her declaration. She is a friend of Sir Ernest and Lady Shackleton, and though they have become intensely interested in polar work.

"Perhaps," it was suggested facetiously, "you would like to go on a dash for the South Pole yourself?" "Wouldn't I, though?" Mrs. Astor answered with enthusiasm. "I do, but especially if it were an expedition such as Sir Ernest's. But I'm still a good American, despite my residence on the other side, and I'm mighty proud of Commander Peary's feat."

Mrs. Astor met at the pier by her sister, Mrs. Mortimer Brooks, of this city. Together they are going to spend a couple of months at their old home in Virginia, and then Mrs. Astor will return to England.

Why Salves Fail TO CURE ECZEMA. Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged, not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription, Ointment of Wintergreen, compounded in liquid form, known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription at only 25 cents will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons. 'ST. PAUL-ST. VITUS' THAT'S ROOSEVELT

The conversation was carried on mostly in English, though Ethel, the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt occasionally dropped into French. The luncheon was not Oriental, but entirely European, being a masterpiece of French cookery. As one of the party afterwards described the affair, "It was like a luncheon at a fashionable hotel."

The luncheon service was of beautiful blue, white and gold porcelain, with the royal crown on each piece. The menu was printed on a neat folding card bearing the name of the hostess. The Khedive's monogram, with the royal arms, formed a crown surmounted by a crescent with a drapery of rose gold and scarlet ermine, centered with a crescent of silver stars in a blue field.

The conversation was general and unimportant. The Khedive was particularly interested and pleased to learn the view of Colonel Roosevelt, an Ambassador Straus on the remarkable improvement and development of Cairo since their last visit, the one, twenty-seven and twenty-two years ago.

A visit to the Cairo Museum with Theodore Davis to view the tomb of Queen Pth, just excavated, and other antiquities, and a dinner and reception at the Hotel de Ville, were the day's program, which was a fair strenuous one, even for Colonel Roosevelt.

Meanwhile, the apprehension among Europeans on account of Roosevelt's address on Monday is growing.

The missionaries are particularly fearsome and are endeavoring to get the colonel to modify his speech. Several native powers are trying to raise trouble. One asks, "Is Roosevelt a citizen of a traveling missionary, trying to raise trouble?"

The colonel, however, remains tranquil.

CAPTAIN M'MAHON ATTENDS SERVICE

Finds Much-Wanted Man at Putnam Theatre Mission.

Charles Huyett attended the services at Putnam's Mission, on East Franklin Street, last night, and Captain McMahon, chief of detectives, was also present. It seems that they are endeavoring to find a different purpose.

May turn out to be unfortunate for Huyett that he entered the mission house. It may be that it is fortunate Captain McMahon was among the congregation. It all depends upon the idea each had in view and upon developments. Anyway, the next time the two men will meet will be before Justice Crutchfield, whose mission in the world is, at least from one point of view, purely secular.

It seems that Huyett is wanted, and has been wanted by the police for some time on a charge of robbing boarding houses.

It is alleged that it was his habit to rent a room, clean the house and then depart without leaving any address. This has been done, it is claimed, not once only, but many times. So it was that the police were asked to look for Charles Huyett, and they have been looking for him in diverse places. Captain McMahon got wind last night that his man was attending the services in the Putnam Mission, so he became one of the congregation.

DIVORCED FRIDAY; WEDS ON SATURDAY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Roxboro, Va., March 26.—Married for spite, repented in a hurry, divorced on Friday, wed again on Saturday. That sentence is the boded down story of an eventful portion of the life history of Mrs. Helen Scharf-Bull-DeZouche.

After the services he accompanied to Huyett to the First Police Station.

There was no excitement. The services went on just as though all were sinners alike, and all were welcome. Then Huyett and Captain McMahon repaired to an earthly house of rest, and there Huyett remained for the night.

to whom she had been legally tied. Then Mrs. Scharf-Bull packed her wardrobe, and accompanied by her mother, hurried to Roanoke to meet the man she had turned down a half-year ago. DeZouche, who is twenty-four years old, dark skinned and of a French air, has been employed in the general offices of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company, at Roanoke, ever since his fiancee married Bull. This evening, soon after the arrival of Mrs. Scharf-Bull and her mother, DeZouche appeared at the office of the clerk of the court and took out a marriage license. The wedding followed an hour later, and everybody was happy. Mrs. Scharf will return to Baltimore. The DeZouches will reside in Roanoke.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is Peculiar to Itself. It makes people well and keeps them well.

Appetite Gone, Nerves Unstrung, Sleepless, Thin, Pale, Tired. "Last spring my health was completely broken down. My appetite was gone and I was in unstrung nervous condition, unable to sleep. I became thin, pale and was languid and tired all the time. Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to perfect health. It aided the worn out nerves of my digestive organs to do their duty, and I was once more able to eat and properly digest my food. I slept peacefully the entire night, and now I feel new life and vitality course my veins." Julia C. Tison, 601 West Monroe St., Jacksonville, Fla.
